

SIMPLICITY MARKS HARDING INAUGURAL

CEREMONY WAS IN KEEPING WITH NEW PRESIDENT'S WISHES

Pathos Marked the Retirement of Woodrow Wilson After Eight Years of Service—Was Unable to Take Part in the Ceremonies—The New President Follows Precedent

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 4.—The reins of presidential authority passed from Woodrow Wilson to Warren G. Harding today in an inaugural ceremony at once the simplest and most dramatic of a generation.

The drama centered about the retirement of Woodrow Wilson to private life. Insistent to the last moment that he would carry out a retiring president's customary part in the ceremonies, Mr. Wilson yielded to the pleading of relatives and to the warning of his physician that he might endanger his life and only accompanied his successor to the capitol.

As he descended from the white house portico to enter the waiting automobile, secret service men placed his feet on each descending step; when he left the car to enter the capitol he was practically lifted a short flight of steps by an attendant and altho he walked alone with the aid of a cane to the president's room where he signed bills, he told Senator Knox, chairman of the congressional inaugural committee that he was not equal to participating in the ceremony of inaugurating Vice President Coolidge in the senate chamber nor in the ceremony of inaugurating President Harding on the portico facing the plaza outside.

After a few moments at the capitol Mr. Wilson went to his private home to become plain Woodrow Wilson now, as he expressed it and he never even glanced at the White House as he passed on his way out.

Before Mr. Harding had been president an hour he had retired a precedent set by George Washington by conferring with the senate in executive session submitting in person the nominations of his ten cabinet officers, all of which immediately were confirmed.

Within another hour he had gone to the White House to hang up his hat and go to work, as he himself often had said, and unlocked the White House gates which for four years had been closed to the public. The public celebrated the event by actually overrunning the grounds and peering thru the windows to see the new president in conference with cabinet officers.

Mr. Harding took the oath of office at 1:18 p. m., exactly eight years to the minute from the time the same words of obligation were spoken by Mr. Wilson at his first inauguration.

The inaugural ceremonies, according to Mr. Harding's wishes, were kept free from almost every show of pomp and circumstance that usually surround the incoming of a chief executive. Thousands witnessed the oath and cheered the old and new president along Pennsylvania avenue, but the crowd was only a fraction of the customary inaugural throngs.

On the bible used by George Washington at his first induction into office and on a verse of scripture extolling the virtues of an humble faith in God, Mr. Harding pledged his best ability to the presidency. In his inaugural address he reaffirmed his belief that the supreme task ahead was to bring the country back to normalcy.

The inauguration ceremony took place as usual on a stand erected above the east steps of the capitol, but in marked contrast to previous inaugurations, when thousands of seats were provided for the distinguished company that remained standing. Even the inaugural stand was much smaller than usual and was erected to accommodate a telephone apparatus which carried Mr. Harding's voice far out over the capitol plaza and for the first time enabled thousands to hear the inaugural address.

About the only features familiar to inaugurals were the patriotic decorations that fluttered in a bright sun along Pennsylvania avenue and the usual guard of cavalry acting as a ceremonial guard of honor in the ride and from the capitol. The only glimpse of a parade was presented by the little group of official motor cars and the hollow noise of troops, kept at a trot in the way.

Before his own inauguration Mr. Harding attended that of his vice-president, Calvin Coolidge, in the senate chamber.

It was an hour past noon when the first of the inaugural company began to file out on the portico facing the east plaza, members of the senate and house first, followed by the foreign diplomats in dress uniform.

Next came the justices of the supreme court and the president-elect, Justice White and

HARDING PRESENTS CABINET NAMES IN PERSON TO SENATE

List Was Confirmed
In Less Than Ten Minutes Time

NEW PRESIDENT
SPEAKS FIVE MINUTES

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Harding presented his cabinet nominations to the senate today in person and they were confirmed by that body in less than ten minutes. The president later signed the commissions of his ten official advisers, who will enter tomorrow upon their new duties, succeeding the men who served Woodrow Wilson.

Presentation of the nominations was the first official act of the incoming president and occurred within less than an hour after he had taken the oath of office. He had discussed the question with senate leaders before his inauguration and when he concluded his inaugural address the senate assembled.

While a quorum was being obtained, Mr. Harding waited in his room of the senate chamber. He had scarcely re-entered the room before the arrival of Senator Lodge of Massachusetts and Senator Underwood of Alabama, the Republican and Democratic leaders who had been appointed by Vice President Coolidge to inform the president that the senate was ready to receive communications from him.

Mr. Harding said he desired to present his message in person and was escorted into the chamber. The president was escorted across the familiar room where he served six years before his call to the White House by Mr. Coolidge. Facing his former colleagues, the president spoke for perhaps five minutes in happy, cordial vein and then read the nominations from a card which he held in his hand. He asked for early action in order, he said, that there might be no hiatus in the government's affairs.

Starting With Senator Fall.
Starting with Senator A. B. Fall of New Mexico—a courtesy because of his senate membership—the senate went thru the list and confirmed all one by one. No objection was raised, all committees to which the nominations ordinarily would have been referred having been polled in advance.

One of the new officials, Mr. Mellon, was sworn in soon after his nomination, the ceremony taking place in the office of Senator Knox of Pennsylvania. The oath was administered by Chief Justice White of the supreme court, assisted by Associate Justice Pitney.

David W. Houston, the retiring secretary of the treasury, stood beside Mr. Mellon during the brief ceremony. Mr. Mellon will take up his work early tomorrow but his associates will defer taking the oath until around noon. Each will appear and be sworn in by the chief clerk of the department in the presence of men they succeed and the chiefs of the various bureaus over which their authority will extend.

The new secretary of war, Mr. Weeks, conferred with President Harding this afternoon at the white house executive offices. The new secretary of the navy also called there during the afternoon but did not see his chief.

Mr. Wilson observed the custom of personally addressing the senate and house when they were in session with open doors, but no precedent in a century had gone before either at a secret sitting.

Mr. Harding has not announced his policy in regard to his messages, but the general expectation among those close to him is that all of his important communications to congress will be made in person.

Reaching the white house shortly before 3 o'clock the president and Mrs. Harding had luncheon with the immediate members of their families, Dr. George T. Harding of Marion, the executive's father, sitting at his son's table as a guest of honor.

Afterward the Hardings held open house to the folks of Marion who had come on several special trains to see their neighbors settled in the executive mansion.

It was late in the afternoon before Mr. Harding made his first visit to his offices and issued the order opening the White House grounds to the public, in doing so he fulfilled a prophecy of Mrs. Harding, who declared on election night last November that one of the first acts of the next administration would be to take the policemen away from the white house gates.

Most of Mr. Harding's first evening in the executive office was spent with his secretary, George B. Christian, Jr., making a preliminary survey of the unfinished business left by the retiring administration. Mr. Christian also completed assignment of a temporary office force, retaining most of those now serving in clerical positions and adding several assistants from the Harding headquarters staff at Marion. It also was decided definitely to continue virtually all of the secret service detail of the Wilson administration, including Richard L. Jervis as chief.

Sixty Sixth Congress Passes Into History

WASHINGTON, March 4.—The sixty-sixth congress passed peacefully into history today with little of the flurry usually attendant to the hurly burly of an inauguration.

Final cavelts fell in the house at 11:50 o'clock and in the senate about 12:30 the latter's clock having been moved backward and the former's forward, both to meet exigencies of the inaugural program. Immediately the new senate was called to order by Vice-President Coolidge for the session requested by President Harding.

The final sessions were virtually devoid of legislation. The principal bills which failed were the army and navy appropriation bill, the sundry civil appropriation bill, the army and immigration measures met a pocket veto by President Wilson, who asked to sign them, and naval bill failed to get thru the senate.

President Wilson waited up on congress in his room off the senate chamber, signing a few last minute measures. Among these were the sundry civil appropriation bill and the Langley bill appropriating $18,600,000 for hospitalization of former service men. In addition to the army and immigration bill President Wilson pocketed the Wason bill amending the war risk insurance act and a private claim bill.

Little speech making marked the day's final proceedings. Among touching incidents, the retiring secretary of the treasury, stood beside Mr. Mellon during the brief ceremony. Mr. Mellon will take up his work early tomorrow but his associates will defer taking the oath until around noon.

Each will appear and be sworn in by the chief clerk of the department in the presence of men they succeed and the chiefs of the various bureaus over which their authority will extend.

GERMANS AWAITING WORD FROM BERLIN ON NEW PROPOSALS

Object to Statement
Germany Responsible for War

HAVE NO HOPE OF SATISFYING ALLIES

(By The Associated Press)
LONDON, March 4.—Awaiting advice from Berlin as to whether new proposals are to be submitted to the allies on Monday, Dr. Brüning, the German foreign secretary and the German experts are busy preparing a reply to some of the arguments used by Premier Lloyd George in his ultimatum yesterday.

The Germans strongly object to the verdict of the allies that they were entirely responsible for the war and the premier's argument that if they taxed themselves as France and England had done they would be able to pay what is demanded of them. They claim that internal taxes, such as those on sugar, tobacco and spirits have not been considered and they are prepared to produce figures showing the allies have underrated their impositions.

With regard to the question of responsibility for the war the Germans maintain the European powers were equally at fault and cite a recent speech by Mr. Lloyd George in which he is quoted as saying that the world drifted into the war.

Attitude of Delegates.
"It is hard to make a man who believes he is innocent say he is guilty," said one of the delegates today. "As for myself I would rather commit suicide than admit Germany alone was responsible."

Any government which such an admission would promptly be overthrown. So if the allies are determined to carry out their demands they must impose them upon us, they soon will find that the penalties which they outlined yesterday will not produce what they expect."

It is the general opinion of Germans in London that new propositions will be laid before the supreme council but they have no hope that they will satisfy the allies. They say it is impossible to satisfy France, and they now fear Premier Lloyd George from whom they had expected more lenient treatment considering that he committed himself so far to the French view that it is impossible for him to recede.

Besides the Germans hold the firm attitude displayed in yesterday's speech was met with such approval in Great Britain that the prime minister must realize they followed the popular view. They believe approval was particularly noticeable respecting the decision to occupy Duisburg, Ruhrort and Dinseldorf, which was taken, it is understood with the idea of bringing pressure on the big industrial enterprise, including that of Hugo Stinnes, who defied the allies at Spa and who it is believed here instigated Dr. Brüning's counter proposals and is urging the cabinet to refuse to comply with the Paris decisions.

The spokesman for the German delegation declared this evening that no reply was expected from Berlin before Sunday night.

MAIL CAR ROBBERS
RECEIVE SENTENCES

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, March 4.—Judge Martin B. Wade in federal court here late this afternoon in sentencing five people convicted of indictments charging complicity in the $3,000,000 Burlington mail car robbery in this city Nov. 13, made the statement that there were half a million dollars in government bonds stolen at that time yet accounted for. The sentences made were:

Merl E. Phillips, 17, twelve years in federal prison at Fort Leavenworth.

Fred A. Poffenberger, senior, Huh A. Reed and T. A. Daly, each four and one-half years.

Mrs. Mary A. Daly, wife of T. A. Daly, four and one-half years at Canon City, Colo., or Rockwell City, Iowa, reformatory.

The prisoners sentenced to Fort Leavenworth will be taken there on a special train tomorrow morning under heavy guard.

RUDOLPH WILL BE WITH BOSTON NATIONALS

Boston, March 4.—Starting for the south today Manager Fred Mitchell of the Boston Nationals learned that he would have with him again Richard Rudolph, "Little Master," one of the three pitchers who brought victory to the Braves in 1914. Rudolph will work on a bonus basis, so much for the games he pitches, and so much more for the games he wins.

WILSON ENDS EIGHT STORM TOSSED YEARS IN THE PRESIDENCY

Became Just Plain Woodrow Wilson, Private Citizen, Friday—Does Not Attempt to Take Part in the Inaugural Ceremonies—
Tells Knox That Senate Threw Him Down

Under his own roof again as a private citizen the former president rested tonight with his burdens of state transferred to other shoulders and the shouting and tumult of the public placed behind him. And thru a day that had taxed his broken physical powers greatly, he came smilingly and with whimsical, humorous twist to his comments, yet with no hint at regret in his retirement from high office.

There was but one incident of the day when that cheerful mood seemed to fail. As he stood in the president's room, Mr. Wilson had been telling Senator Knox that he would not witness in the senate the inauguration of Vice President Coolidge as he doubted his ability owing to his physical infirmities to negotiate the few steps he must climb.

"The senate has thrown me down," he said to the Pennsylvania senator in reference to battles of the past and the peace treaty, "but I am not going to fall down."

A moment later some one touched his arm to call his attention to the fact that Senator Lodge had arrived in the room as head of the joint committee to inform the president that the sixty-sixth congress stood ready for adjournment if he had no further communications to make.

Mr. Wilson still alone, made his way the short distance to the President's room and the business before him. He greeted the senators waiting there, exchanged humorous quips with some of them and signed or waived away the bills that were laid before him.

Harding Displays Sympathy.
As he said good bye to Mr. Wilson, the incoming president again displayed the sympathy he felt for his stricken predecessor. They clasped hands and Mr. Harding said:

"Good-bye, Mr. President. I know you are glad to be relieved of your burden and worries. I want to tell you how much I appreciate the courtesies you have extended to me."

Mr. Wilson seemed to agree that he was glad to be free for he even gained in cheerfulness as he moved out of the room, with Senator Knox escorting him to the elevator.

"I can't get accustomed to this slow way to the waiting machine," Mr. Wilson said to the senator as they moved slowly along. "My feet feel so light."

In the elevator, the president swung his cane by its curved handle into the vest pocket of his coat as the cage reached the lower floor and stood with right hand on the shoulder of the operator.

"Good-bye, son," he said, then stepped out to retrace the long slow way to the waiting machine. Again in the automobile with Mrs. Wilson, Admiral Grayson, his physician, and Joseph P. Tumulty his private secretary thru the eight years in the white house Mr. Wilson seemed, if anything, to have gained in cheerfulness thru the ordeal. He was whirled back over Pennsylvania avenue route, raising his hat in answer to greetings as he was recognized by the waiting crowds, of the salutes of soldiers and police who lined the way.

Passing of the white house the machine raced now without escort of troops or police and Mr. Wilson gave the stately structure, long his home, not a glance. He was carried swiftly to his own new home on S street and there a few hundred neighbors had gathered to cheer him, unmindful of the ceremony, huddled away at the capitol where his successor was taking the oath of office.

A home at last. Mr. Wilson stood with Mrs. Wilson to receive the newspapermen who had accompanied him thru the day and most of whom had been long at the white house. He grasped their hands as they came forward presented by Mr. Tumulty and exchanged a word or two with each.

About him in the house a score of intimate friends gathered to do him honor on his return to private life, and it was to Admiral Grayson, who thru habit had spoken to him as "Mr. President," that the cheerful conversation was addressed.

"No, just plain Woodrow Wilson, now."

Walks to Elevator.
Mr. Wilson was lifted out of the car and up the steps by Brooks. At the top he paused to change his glasses and apparently to recover from the effort. Then grasping his cane, but alone unaided, he moved thru the door to the second floor where he stood for two steps to mount and there Arthur Brooks, negro custodian of the white house, awaited him.

Most of the people who follow congressional affairs were not surprised that the Fordney tariff measure did not pass over the president's veto in the closing hours of the session. The fact seems to be that some of the senators and congressmen who advocated the measure were at the same time very much afraid that a two-thirds vote might nullify the president's veto. Some of them even felt shaky about passing the measure for fear that Mr. Wilson might fail to veto it.

Generally speaking, a tariff measure requires longer time or study and consideration than could be given it at a short session.

A Jacksonville man said yesterday that the time demand of the Fourth of July flag waving type, but that patriotism which means faith in one's country and its institutions—a belief that present conditions of unrest will grow better and that days of greater prosperity are not far distant.

In fact, the present day demand for a patriotism that is synonymous with optimism, and optimism of a time consistent type is a most helpful thing. When one makes an unbiased survey of facts and conditions he will find that there are good reasons for optimism, for the belief that industrial and business conditions will speedily and steadily improve.

Talking about optimism, that's the thing that cattle feeders need these days. One farmer shipped a few carloads of stock recently and took a $6,000 loss with a smiling face. The fact was that the cattle sold at a less price per pound than the original cost, and that after eating several thousands of bushels of corn.

But what's the use of grieving over losses? The business man of the right type—and certainly the farmer is a business man—knows that the way to face a loss is to get profit from the experience. This can be done if a man doesn't let the losses worry him for capitalized experience has real value.

STRAIGHTENING BOYS OUT.
New York has 9,000 or 10,000 children arrested yearly. Justice Hoyt, before whom many are arraigned, tells in his new book, "Quicksands of Youth," what arrest means retrospectively and prospectively. What will most strike some readers is the book's tolerance, says the New York Post. But such readers do not know that Denver's Children's Court some years ago reported that 70 per cent of misconduct was due mainly to parental misconduct, or that the more crowded cities have traced half of it to limited opportunities for play. The emphasis in these pages falls upon instances in which starving or perversion of natural instinct leads to disaster.

With runaways, neglected children, embryo gangsters, and truant investigation and probation are usually needed. For street fighting and pushcart thievery the same prescription holds. One motive to misconduct that recurs in Justice Hoyt's book and is doubtless more important in New York than in smaller cities demands careful and face-to-face inquiry. It is the distrust or hatred of the social order which impressionable lads catch from radicals.

Justice Hoyt tells us too much of the children to have space left for the machinery or achievements of the Children's Court. But every social worker knows how much the reorganization of this court six years ago accomplished. In the best equipped building in the world one justice sits formally upon the child's case, while another deals with children as adviser. A quarter of the court's space is given over to the large staff of trained probation officers, men and women. Not long ago the only supervision of New York's wayward youngsters was that of a few volunteers and employees of social agencies. But volunteers, "big brothers" and "big sisters"—cannot do the work of experienced, salaried men. The court has a psychopathic clinic. The city's children are incomparably better served than only a half dozen years ago when we had neither a special court binding nor special justices. Offending children used to be herded into court along with hardened adults judged by much the same law as adults, and given little sympathy. We are now beginning to recognize how often a child's transgressions are the result of transgressions against the child.

WINCHESTER WINS GAME FROM VERMONT

Defeat Visiting Team By Score of 20 to 18—Game Hotly Contested.

Winchester, March 4.—Winchester high defeated Vermont high here tonight by a score of 20 to 18. The game was hotly contested and the result was in doubt until the final gun sounded. The Winchester boys won because of better team play and accuracy in basket shooting. The score:

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS TRIM SANGAMO FIVE

Defeat Springfield Aggregation by Score of 30 to 22—Victory Play Excellent Brand of Basketball.

The Knights of Columbus showing a remarkable reversal of form over that displayed against Myers brothers, defeated the Sangamo Aggregation of Springfield in Liberty hall Friday night by a score of 30 to 22.

The Knights did everything that could be expected from a basketball team—Friday night. The men were accurate in basket shooting and displayed excellent floor work.

Costello again appeared at center and L. Woulfe former senior took the guard position. The change seems to have been a good thing for both of these players as they have shown much improved form.

Zell, Carson, Costello, Clancy and Woulfe all took part in the scoring and the guards did excellent work on defense keeping Jenkins the Sangamo forward well covered. Edlich was the star for the visitors. The score:

FRANKLIN WINS FROM CHAPIN HIGH

Defeat Opponents by Score of 47 to 12—Seymour and Sweet Star for Franklin.

A game of basketball was played between the Franklin High school and Chapin High at Franklin Friday night resulting in a victory for Franklin the score being 47 to 12. The visitors were outclassed from start to finish. Chapin was somewhat handicapped as Smith and Perbix star players were not able to play on account of illness.

JACKSONVILLE WINS FROM VIRGINIA HIGH

Defeats Cass County Five By Score of 38 to 10—Mitchell Uses Second String Squad in Third Quarter.

Jacksonville High school won an easy victory over Virginia high in David Prince gymnasium Friday night by a score of 38 to 10.

Coach Mitchell injected his entire second team in the second half and during the third quarter they scored 18 points to two free throws for Virginia. This was better work than the first team did as they were able to score but 20 points to 4 for Virginia during the entire first half.

The game must have been encouraging to Mitchell as it demonstrated that he has second string men almost as strong as the first team which is a valuable asset in a tournament.

Woods starred in the first half on the offense Alexander feeding him the ball in great shape. Goebel also made a beautiful shot from the center of the floor and Mawson and Alexander also broke into the scoring.

For the second team all of the men played a great game. Struck, Deatherage, Putnam and Hunt scored the points. Hunt played an excellent game on both offense and defense and should prove a valuable man for Coach Mitchell next year.

David Prince played a curtain raiser with the Centenary team, winning by a score of 6 to 4.

One of the largest crowds of the season witnessed the two contests and it looked like the opening night of the tournament so many people were packed into the gymnasium for the contests.

COMMUNITY INTEREST STRONG IN FARM BUREAU PROJECTS

The interest in the organization of special community work in connection with the farm bureau continues. An excellent meeting was held at the Liberty school house in Markham precinct Thursday night. C. A. Rowe, County Agent, C. B. Kendall, John R. Todd, Wilbur Williams, A. B. McKinney and F. R. Watson were among the speakers.

A great deal of interest was shown in the soil fertility program thru the use of limestone and phosphate and several of those present talked of the advantages of sowing soybeans. It is a known fact that beans are helpful as fertilizers and they are excellent in providing a balanced ration for livestock.

GAVE FACTS ABOUT EARLY COUNTY DAYS

F. J. Heintz Talked to Congregational Brotherhood About "Pilgrims of the Mauvaisterre."

At the meeting of the Congregational Brotherhood last night there was an unusually large attendance of the membership. An excellent supper had been prepared by the special committee which included Earl M. Spink, J. Cully and Stanley H. Post. The speaker of the evening was Frank J. Heintz, who had for his theme "Pilgrims of the Mauvaisterre."

Mr. Heintz has done a great deal of painstaking work thru the years in digging out facts about the early history of Morgan county and his address was of a most interesting and informing kind. He traced the movement of the early settlers from the east to the western country. The period covered was that from the close of the revolution until the time when Illinois was admitted to the union.

It was Mr. Heintz's statement that 102 years ago there was not a white man in Morgan county. He presented some facts about the first settlement here and mentioned a number of the families said to have been included in the list of the earlier settlers.

The meaning of the words that make up "Mauvaisterre" was discussed and various thoughts presented about early days

The Original All-Record Phonograph Without Attachments

Such is The Brunswick, and part of its fame is due to this innovation. Until the coming of this noted instrument, most Phonograph owners had to be content with a one record instrument. Brunswick made this idea out of date.

There has been many attempts to equal The Brunswick, but devices and attachments never bring the desired result. The Ultona is part of The Brunswick inbuilt, and it plays every record at its best.

Another exclusive feature is The Brunswick Tone Amplifier, built entirely of wood; it has no cast metal throat, as is usual.

Brunswick

This scientific Tone Amplifier, built according to acoustic laws, gives truer, richer tone. It reveals hitherto lost shadings.

Hear The Brunswick before you buy a Phonograph. Note its unequalled tone, its superb cabinet work, its many betterments. You will hardly believe all the good things they say about Brunswick's, until you see for yourself.

Clyde H. Williams who resides two and a half miles west of Chapin, had a narrow escape from injury recently. He and Lee Robbins were transferring some cows from one farm to another.

The animals were being driven along the road near the railroad track and went on the track just as No. 9, the fast mail, was coming at a rapid rate of speed.

Mr. Williams rode up on the track and hurried the cows across, all except one which ran along the track directly in front of the engine. The cow was thrown a distance of 150 feet when the engine struck her and fell within three feet of where Mr. Williams' horse was standing. Mr. Williams naturally feels very thankful that the accident had no worse consequence.

Tired Out?

Do you know that languidness, that "awful tired feeling," heaviness, lame or weak back, sore muscles, stiff or swollen joints, rheumatic pains, lumbago, in the great majority of cases, indicate kidney trouble?

Foley Kidney Pills

act promptly and effectively to restore weak, overworked or diseased kidneys and bladder to a healthy condition.

Mrs. Robert Blair, 481 S. 20th Street, Terre Haute, Ind., writes: "I suffered two years with kidney and bladder trouble frequently getting backache. Mornings I would arise feeling very tired and having headaches, and so that I could not do my work. The backache stopped and my kidneys were restored to healthy, normal action. I am now free of those tired spells and headaches and my vision is no longer blurred. My recovery is entirely due to Foley Kidney Pills, which I gladly recommend."

Text of President Harding's Speech

Washington, D. C., March 4.—The President Warren G. Harding's inaugural address follows:

My countrymen, when one surveys the world about him after the great year, noting the marks of destruction and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, he is an American he breathes the revived atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen a world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken, and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure and here comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both. Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he senses the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founding fathers. Surely here must have been God's intent in the making of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which had at one and the same time, and we saw that placed in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintaining the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the world rivet its hopeful gaze on the great truths which the founders wrought. We have seen civil human and religious liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning the old world stood at our experiment, today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind, let us express renewed and strengthened devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning and utter our confidence in the supreme fulfillment. Progress Proves Wisdom. The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually, in itself proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in old world affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny and jealousy guarding our right to do so we seek no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment, in each instance, may determine. Our eyes never will be blind to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world, with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the call of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation. We crave friendship, and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America built on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations which will subject our decisions to any other than our own authority. I am sure our own people will not misunderstand, nor will the world misconstrue. We have no thought to impede the paths to close relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and peoples who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization. Association for Counsel. We are ready to associate ourselves with the nations of the world, great and small for conference, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that expressed conscience of progress, which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court for the disposition of such justiciable questions as nations are agreed to submit there to. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new concept of righteousness and justice and its hatred of war into recommended action, we are ready most heartily to unite but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty. Since freedom impelled, and independence inspired and nationality exalted, a world supergovernment is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our republic. This is not selfishness, it is sanctity. It is not aloofness, it is security. It is not suspicion of others, it is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are. Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humankind and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The selfishness of these united states is a thing proven, our devotion to peace for ourselves and for the world is well established, our concern for preserved civilization has had its impassioned and heroic expression. There was no American failure to resist the attempted reversion of civilization, there will be no failure today or tomorrow. Rests on Popular Will. The success of our popular government, rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In a deliberate questioning of a suggested change of national policy, where internationalism was to supersede nationality, we turned to a referendum to the American people. There was ample discussion, and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding. America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any seemingly program likely to lessen the permissibility of war and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be God's highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appraise international comity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization and we hold a maintained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents. Mankind needs a worldwide benediction of understanding. It is needed among individuals, among peoples, among governments, and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive confidently for the promotion of better relationships and nations will promote the comities so essential to peace. Trade Ties Bind Closely. We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy and none may receive except as it gives. We have not strengthened ours in accordance with our resources or our genius, notably on our own continent, where a galaxy of republics reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek expanded confidence.

Perhaps we can make no more helpful contribution by example than prove a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us destitute lands nor desolated cities, left no gaping wounds, no breast filled with hate, it did involve us in the delirium of expenditure, in expanded currency and credits, in unbalanced industry, in unspeakable waste and disturbed relationships. While it uncovered our portion of hateful selfishness at home, it also revealed the heart of America as sound and fearless, and beating in confidence unflinching. Amid it all we have riveted the gaze of all civilization to the selfishness and the righteousness of representative democracy, where our freedom never has made offensive warfare, never has sought territorial aggrandizement through force, never has turned to the arbitrament of arms until reason had been exhausted. When the governments of earth shall have established a freedom like our own and shall have sanctioned the pursuit of peace as we have practiced it, I believe the last sorrow and the final sacrifice of international warfare will have been written. Our Supreme Task. Our supreme task is the resumption of our onward normal way. Reconstruction, readjustment, restoration—all these must follow. I would like to hasten them. If it will lighten the spirit and take to the resolution with which we take up the task, let me repeat for our nation, we shall give no people just cause to make war upon us, we hold no national prejudice, we entertain no spirit of revenge, we do not hate, we do not covet, we dream of no conquest, nor boast of armed prowess. If, despite this attitude, war is again forced upon us, I earnestly hope a way may be found which will unify our individual and collective strength and consecrate all America, materially and spiritually, body and soul, to national defense. I can envision the ideal republic, where every man and woman is called under the flag, for assignment to duty, for whatever service, military or civic, the individual is best fitted, where we may call to universal service every plant, agency or facility, all in the sublime sacrifice for country and not one penny of war profit shall inure to the benefit of private individual, corporation or combination, but all above the normal shall flow into the defense chest of the nation. There is something inherently wrong, something out of accord with the ideals of representative democracy when one portion of our citizenship turns its activities to private gain and defensive war while another is fighting, sacrificing or dying for national preservation. Unity of Spirit and Purpose. Out of such universal service will come a new unity of spirit and purpose, a new confidence and consecration, which would make our defense impregnable, our triumph assured. Then we should have little or no disorganization of our economic, industrial and commercial systems at home, no staggering war debts, no swollen fortunes to flout the sacrifices of our soldiers, no excuse for sedition, no pitiable slackness, no outrage of treason. Envy and jealousy would have no soil for their menacing development and revolution would be without the passion which engenders it. A regret for the mistakes of yesterday must not, however, blind us to the tasks of today. War never left such an aftermath. There has been loss of life, loss of property, loss of material. Nations are still groping for return to stable days. Discouraging indebtedness confronts us like all the war torn nations, and these obligations must be provided for. No civilization can survive repudiation. We can reduce the abnormal expenditures and we will. We can strike at war taxation, and we must. We must face the grim necessity with full knowledge that the task is to be solved and we must proceed with a full realization that no statute enacted by man can repeal the inexorable laws of nature. Our most dangerous tendency is to expect too much of government and at the same time to do for it too little. We contemplate the immediate task of putting our public household in order. We need a rigid and yet sane economy combined with fiscal justice and must be attended by individual prudence and thrift, which are so essential to this trying hour and reassuring for the future. Reflection of Wars Reaction. The business world reflects the disturbance of war's reaction. Herein flows the life blood of material existence. The economic mechanism is intricate and its parts interdependent and has suffered the shocks and jars incident to abnormal demands, credit inflations and price upheavals. The normal balances have been impaired, the channels of distribution have been clogged, the relations of labor and management have been strained. We must seek the readjustment with care and courage. Our people must give and take. Prices must reflect the receding fever of war activities. Perhaps we never shall know the old levels of wage again, because war invariably readjusts compensations and the necessities of life will show their inseparable relationship, but we must strive for normalcy to reach stability. All the penalties will not be light, nor evenly distributed. There is no way of making them so. There is no instant step from disorder to order. We must face a condition of grim reality, charge off our losses and start afresh. It is the oldest lesson of civilization. I would like government to do all it can to mitigate them, in understanding in mutuality of interest, in concern for the common good our tasks will be solved. No altered system will work a miracle. Any wild experiment will only add to the confusion. Our best assurance lies in efficient administration of our proven system. From Destruction to Production. The forward course of the business cycle is unmistakable. Peoples are turning from destruction to production. Industry has sensed the changed order and our own people are turning to resume their normal, onward way. The call is for productive America to go on. I know that congress and the administration will favor every wise government policy to aid the resumption and encourage continued progress. I speak for administrative efficiency, for lightened tax burdens, for sound commercial practices, for adequate credit facilities, for sympathetic concern, for all agricultural problems, for the omission of unnecessary interference of government with business, for an end to governments experiment in business, and for more efficient business in government administration. With all of this must attend mindfulness of the human side of all activities so that social, industrial and economic justice will be squared with the purposes of a righteous people. With the nation-wide induction of womanhood into our political life, we may count upon her intuitions, her refinements, her intelligence and her influence to exalt the social order. We count upon her exercise of the full privileges and the performance of the duties of citizenship to speed the attainment of the highest state. Prayer for Industrial Peace. I wish for an America no less alert in guarding against dangers from within than it is watchful against enemies from without. Our fundamental law recognizes no class, no group, no section, there must be none in legislation or administration. The supreme inspiration is the common good. Humanity hungers for international peace, and we crave it with all mankind. My most reverent prayer for America is for industrial peace, with its rewards, widely and generally distributed and the inspirations of equal opportunity. No one justly may deny the equality of opportunity which made us what we are. We have mistaken unpreparedness to embrace it to be a challenge of the reality, and due concern for making all citizens fit for participation will give added strength and citizenship and magnify our achievement. If revolution insists upon overturning established order, let other peoples make the tragic experiment. There is no place for it in America. When world war threatened civilization we pledged our resources and our lives to its preservation and when revolution threatens we will untill the flag of law and order and renew our consecration. Ours is a constitutional freedom where the popular will is the law supreme and minorities are sacredly protected. Our revisions, reforms and evolutions reflect a deliberate judgment and an orderly progress, and we mean to cure our ills, but never destroy or permit destruction by force. I had rather submit our industrial controversies to the conference table in advance than to a settlement table after conflict and suffering. The earth is thirsting for the cup of good will, understanding is its fountain source. I would like to acclaim an era of good feeling amid dependable prosperity and all the blessings which attend.

Protection of Industries. It has been proved again and again that we cannot, while throwing our markets open to the world, maintain American standards of living and opportunity and hold our industrial eminence in such unequal competition. There is a lurking fallacy in the theory of banished barriers of trade, but preserved American standards require our higher production costs to be reflected in our tariffs on imports. Today as never before, when peoples are seeking trade restoration and expansion, we must adjust our tariffs to the new order. We seek participation in the world's exchanges, because therein lies our way to widened influence and the triumphs of peace. We know full well we cannot sell where we do not buy, and we cannot sell successfully where we do not carry. Opportunity is calling not alone for the restoration, but for a new era in production, transportation and trade. We shall answer it best by meeting the demand of a surpassing home market, by promoting self-reliance in production, and by bidding enterprise, genius and efficiency to carry our cargoes in American bottoms to the markets of the world. An America of Homes. We would not have an America living within and for herself alone but we would have her self-reliant, independent, and ever nobler, stronger and richer. Believing in our higher standards, reared through constitutional liberty and maintained opportunity, we invite the world to the same heights. But pride in things wrought is no reflex of a completed task. Common welfare is the goal of our national endeavor. Wealth is not inimical to welfare, it ought to be its friendly agency. There never can be equality of rewards or possessions so long as the human plan contains varied talents and differing degrees of industry and thrift but ours ought to be a country free from great blotches of distressed poverty. We ought to find a way to guard against the perils and penalties of unemployment. We want an America of homes, illumined with hope and happiness, where mothers, freed from the necessity for long hours of toil beyond their own doors, may preside as the heartstone of American citizenship. We want the cradle of American childhood rocked under conditions so wholesome and so hopeful that no blight may touch it in its development, and we want to provide that no selfish interest, no matter what, no lack of opportunity shall

WOMEN WHO CANNOT WORK

Read Mrs. Corley's Letter and Benefit by Her Experience

Edmund, S. C.—"I was run down with nervousness and female trouble and suffered every month. I was not able to do any work and tried a lot of medicine, but got no relief. I saw your medicine advertised in a little book, and I had not taken two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I could see it was helping me. I am keeping house now and am able to do all of my work. I cannot say enough for your medicine. It has done more for me than any doctor. You may print this letter if you wish."—ELIZABETH C. CORLEY, care of A. P. Corley, Edmund, S. C.

Ability to stand the strain of work is the privilege of the strong and healthy, but how our hearts ache for the weak and sickly women struggling with their daily rounds of household duties, with backaches, headaches, nervousness and almost every movement brings a new pain. Why will not the mass of letters from women all over this country, which have been publishing convincing such women that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help them just as surely as it did Mrs. Corley?

prevent the gaining of that education so essential to best citizenship.

There is no short cut to the making of these ideals into glad realities. The world has witnessed, again and again, the futility and the mischief of ill-considered remedies for social and economic disorders. But we are mindful today as never before of the friction of modern industrialism, and we must learn its causes and reduce its evil consequences by sober and tested methods. Where genius has made for great possibilities, justice and happiness must be reflected in a greater common welfare.

Service, the Supreme Commitment. Service is the supreme commitment of life. I would rejoice to acclaim the era of the golden rule and crown it with the autocracy of service. I pledge an administration wherein all the agencies of government are called to serve, and ever promote an understanding of government purely as an expression of the popular will.

One cannot stand in this presence and be unmindful of the tremendous responsibility. The world upheaval has added heavily to our tasks. But with the realization comes the surge of high resolve and there is reassurance in belief in the God-given destiny of our republic. If I felt that there is to be sole responsibility in the executive for the America of tomorrow, I should shrink from the burden. But here are a hundred millions, with common concern and shared responsibility, answerable to God and country. The republic summons them to their duty and I invite cooperation.

I accept my part with singleness of purpose and humility of spirit and I implore the favor and guidance of God in His heaven. With these I am unafraid, and confidently face the future.

I have taken the solemn oath of office on that passage of holy writ wherein it is asked, "What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, and to love mercy, and walk humbly with thy God." This I plight to God and country.

SEEK TO ORGANIZE COMMUNITY HIGH SCHOOL

Petition Signed by Woodson Citizens Filed With County Superintendent of Schools.

It is the hope of a number of citizens of Woodson precinct to have an early election upon the question of creating a community high school district. A petition asking that such an election be held has been filed with H. H. Vasconcellos, county superintendent of schools. The petition recites the general facts of the law under which it is filed.

The county superintendent has taken the matter under advisement. Should he recognize the need of such a school in the Woodson community, an election to settle the matter will be called by him. Should he believe that the territory described in the petition is not of sufficient area to maintain a community high school, the petition would probably be returned for re-circulation in larger territory, or some other action taken.

Before acting upon the petition, the county superintendent will consider the proposition with reference to the area, assessed valuation of the territory and the number of pupils the school would serve.

The question of a community high school for Woodson has been agitated for several years. Citizens signing the petition believe that there is a need for a high school there, and that a new high school would be of great value to the community. As it now is, the young persons of Woodson and community attend high school in Jacksonville and Murrayville.

The area described in the petition now in the possession of the superintendent is smaller than the average high school district. Some twenty-nine sections are included, which is less than one township.

The petition was signed by the following voters of the Woodson community: Fred H. Kriner, H. J. Hagan, J. J. McAllister, L. A. Fitzsimmons, J. C. Colton, Jesse Harney, G. W. Miller, Clyde O. Smith, Russell M. McAllister, Charles O. Morrow, Randolph Kohl, Frank Kohl, Fred J. Henderson, George R. Henry, G. E. White, Ben T. Willis, George Bragdon, E. W. Sorrells, J. Steinmetz, James Adair, John Orris, Edward Gallagher, H. L. Oving, Howard Henry, J. M. Hawks, G. A. Harney, Harry C. Harney, William Colton, S. J. Baxter, George M. Cunningham, C. C. Self, Guy Henson, J. R. Shelton, Russell Devore, John M. Shenton, Charles A. Taylor, Harry F. Smith, H. S. Delong, Eugene Dryden, Allan R. Sturdy, Dr. R. R. Jones, E. N. Adams, W. H. Fitzsimmons, George Styles, C. E. Butler, A. M. Myers, Edwin Cade, Jesse Henry, A. J. Barber, William Rook, Lloyd W. Darwent, J. D. Fitzsimmons.

MUCH ILLINOIS FARM LAND IN DRAINAGE

Urbana, Ill., March 5.—(By the A. P.)—One-eighth of the farm land in Illinois is now embraced in drainage and levee districts, including 4,500,680 acres, according to a recent report of the State Geological Survey.

THE TOWER SYSTEM OF CULTIVATION

The "Tower" Roller-Packer Mulcher

Rolls the ground even. Packs the soil firm but not tight. Gives top soil a fine, moisture preserving mulch. Crushes the clods. Prepare your corn ground with it. Does not destroy young plant growth. Roll your oats and wheat in the spring when the ground cracks open and notice the results when you thresh. The loose speckled wheel fluffs mulches the top soil and keeps the roller clean.

The "Tower" Pulverizer

The combined slicing, lightly soil-moving and harrowing action of this Pulverizer makes a perfect seed bed for planting. Furnished in 6, 8, and 10 foot widths.

Low Prices of Grain

Demand greater yields per acre with less labor and at smaller cost. "Tower Tools" greatly increase the yield per acre, improve the quality, lessen the labor and reduce cost of production.

Ask your dealer about them now. See List Below.

J. D. Tower & Sons Co.
Mendota, Illinois

These valuable tools may be purchased from any of the following reliable dealers in this neighborhood:

Arnold: Farmers Elevator Co.
Jacksonville: Hall Brothers
Murrayville: James L. Solomon
Waverly: W. H. Graves

The "Tower" One Row Cultivator

Surface cultivation of corn is recognized by corn growers all over the Corn Belt of America as the best method. It does not destroy the corn roots, preserves moisture, raises more and better corn on the same amount of ground with less labor. Gets all weeds.

The "Tower" Two Row Cultivator

The Tower Surface Two Row Cultivator is used very extensively and very successfully in the cultivation of corn. In using this tool the farmer should take the two rows as they were planted by the planter. One man and three horses will do the same work as two men and four horses, thus eliminating not only one horse but also one man and thereby reducing man and horse labor and lessening the cost of production. The Two-Row Surface Cultivator does the same kind of work as the One Row.

MARKET
CLOSING FIRM
Associated Press.

Chicago, March 4.—Increase in the confidence in values followed itself in the wheat market today largely on account of crop conditions and export business, but also owing more or less to optimism based on President Harding's inaugural speech. The market closed firm, 1½ to 3¢ higher with March $1.73 to $1.74 and May $1.83 to $1.84. Corn gained ½ to ¾¢ and oats ½ to ¾¢. In provisions there was a set back of 7c to 15c. At first the wheat market appeared to be in a hesitating mood as a result of the familiar of the emergency tariff bill. Selling was not pressed and the market soon turned upward. Moderate further gains were scored after the substance of President Harding's address became known. Reactions, which took place later were apparently of a transient sort due to profit-taking.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Country offerings were light. Lower quotations on hogs weakened provisions.
